PAPÉ MACHINERY ADDS CAMOPLAST AS NEW ALLIED VENDOR

Tuesday, January 13, 2009

EUGENE, OR – Papé Machinery Inc. recently announced that, beginning January 1, 2009, it will add Camoplast as a new allied vendor. Camoplast manufactures specialized rubber track undercarriage components, sub-systems and assemblies for the world's leading off-road vehicles.

"Papé and Camoplast share a strong commitment to high-quality products and services, so this is a natural partnership," says Quincy Powers, director of product support of Papé Machinery Inc. "We are excited to offer Camoplast products to Papé customers to help them lower their undercarriage operating costs."

"Camoplast is pleased to partner with Papé Machinery to distribute our construction tracks on the West Coast," says Douglas Kershaw, director of aftermarket sales and marketing with Camoplast. "Papé has the best business model for success and together we see great potential in servicing the construction market."

About Camoplast

Camoplast designs, develops and manufactures specialized components, sub-systems and assemblies for the world leading original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) of both on- and off-road vehicles. Products include: rubber tracks, rubberized wheels, undercarriage systems, body dressing parts, under-the-hood plastic components and assemblies, molded skis, engine covers, thermal and air induction systems. Since the early 1960s, the privately owned company has delivered these products to the assembly lines of the world's leading OEMs in a variety of markets including automotive, agricultural, construction and industrial, defense, and powersports. Camoplast is also a turn-key manufacturer of a full line of multi-terrain tracked vehicles for the utility, oil & gas, telecommunications, mining, alpine, municipal, and OEM markets. The company operates manufacturing plants in Canada, the U.S., Europe and Asia.
